Finding a mentor/mentee

A mentor may be a more experienced individual who you believe epitomizes what you hope to become.

A mentee may be an individual in whom you see great promise and who could benefit from your tutelage.

If you are lacking either a mentor or mentee, don't despair as we are here to help.

Look through the mentorship materials provided on the Share YOU portion of the azcteleads.org website and determine what resources you would like to utilize to make the mentorship a success. Use the resources to identify a goal or a need you would like to work toward and identify action steps to be completed throughout the year. Use the suggestions provided as a springboard if necessary.

Each quarter:

Meet (in person or digitally) with your mentor/mentee and update each other on the action steps previously identified. Determine if a new goal needs to be created. If so, identify a new goal and identify action steps to be completed prior to your next meeting. If not, identify additional action steps to help meet the established goal.

Consider discussing things that are working and things that are not. Don't be afraid to laugh at mistakes. Look for an email from Share You that will have valuable information to support you through the mentorship process.
